

1. There are 4944 classes overall
2. There are 2320 deduplicated classes overall
3. The Anthropology (ANTH) department has the most different classes (114). However, this is most likely inaccurate because duplicate classes were added in alphabetical order – meaning that equivalent classes to anthropology classes were removed while the equivalent anthropology classes were kept. For example, if the following classes are all equivalent: [KNOW 21410, CRES 21410, HIPS 21410, ANTH 22165], the anthropology class was kept while the other 3 classes were removed.
4. The number of different classes for each quarter are 581 for Autumn, 677 for Winter, and 736 for Spring. The number of classes offered are in the increasing order of Autumn, Winter, and Spring. However, this also may not be accurate because there were many classes in the catalog that did not include the terms offered.
